HAMLET PLAYS THE CLOWN IN
"THE ENTERTAINER"

Usually it is the clown who yearns to play Hamlet, the red-nosed comic who pines to swap his knockabout and slapstick for Shakespeare's most soul-searching poetry. But in "The Entertainer" it is Hamlet who plays the clown.

It is Sir Laurence Olivier, one of the world's greatest Hamlets, who reverses the dream by stepping down from the nobler reaches of classical drama to play Archie Rice, the ne'er-do-well song and dance man in the controversial film based on John Osborne's powerful and explosive play which starred the distinguished actor on the London and New York stage. Brenda de Banzie and Joan Plowright recreate their stage roles as Archie's wife and daughter, respectively; and Roger Livesey appears in the movie as the father, Billy Rice, old-time music-hall star who lives on nostalgia and bitterness. Tony Richardson, one of England's fastest rising young directors helmed "The Entertainer" from a script by Osborne and Nigel Kneale.

But to get back to Hamlet. To become Archie, the bawdy, burlesque comic who jokes his way out of reality unless that reality is a lady upon whom he can

BNL FLYING CLUB TO HOLD BREAKFAST FLY-IN

The BNL Flying Club will hold its first group flight Sunday, September 13. Take-off is planned for 7:30 a.m. from MacArthur Airport. The flight will head west over New York and then southwest over New Jersey, with the Flying W Ranch as the destination. Located about 20 miles east of Philadelphia and 20 miles south of Trenton, the Flying W Ranch is a most delightful stopping place. In addition to full flight facilities, it offers swimming, horseback riding, and excellent food in either of two restaurants. The trip down will take a little over one hour. The group will have breakfast at the Flying W, relax, and return to MacArthur later in the morning. It's expected that five to eight aircraft will form the group making the flight.

Club members who did not attend the meeting on August 17 and are interested in participating as pilot or passenger should contact the Club's Secretary-Treasurer, Peter Weiss, Ext. 2373, or Dave Edwards, Ext. 483. It will be necessary to know who is going by the 9th of September in order to make arrangements.

The fourth and final pistol match will be held on September 3 on site at 5:30, and any shooter who has not yet qualified is expected to attend.

MR. AND MRS. BOWLING LEAGUE

Entries received to date favor the Patchogue Bowling Center as the location, but the choice between Thursday and Sunday nights is running close. Those entered would like to see a larger league, so the deadline has been extended to 1:00 p.m. on Friday, September 4, to allow for more entries.

Teams are composed of two married couples each, with at least half of each couple a BNL employee. Employees in our regular men's and ladies' leagues are also eligible to enter this league.

Entry blanks are available from the Recreation Office in the Gym, and more information is available from Len Baker, Ext. 591.

ENTER NOW!CASTING CALL!

Tryouts for the theatre group's fall production, "Separate Tables," will be held in the theatre September 9 and 10 at 7:30 p.m. Scripts are available. Please call Rita Straub at Ext. 2878.

exercise his still apparently successful charm, Sir Laurence slips into a loud check suit, a snappy bowler, a bow tie. He paints on thick eyebrows, a cupid's bow mouth, and swings on stage in metal-edged shoes to push across a seedy song, a blue gag and tap-dance.

With the greatest of ease, this Hamlet takes his accent down to an indefinable lower-rung of the social ladder, bites a chorus-girl's leg, swings up with the final curtain, sings songs called "Put Me Among The Girls," "Why Should I Care," "Thank God I'm Normal."

He bounces on stage, lunges his stick at the trombonist, leers at the audience and points to the conductor of the band. "He met my wife in a revolving door," he wheezes, "and they've been going round together ever since."

But when Hamlet plays the clown in "The Entertainer," an extra dimension creeps in. Behind the grin lurks the fear of a slipping career. In the sporadic patter of applause there is the sound of failure. The eyes tell a tale of bankruptcy.

How did Sir Laurence do it? He changed his hair-style. He had a gap made between his front teeth. He adopted a kind of weary stoop. Whereas some parts are achieved with struggle, Archie Rice, says Olivier, "came more easily."

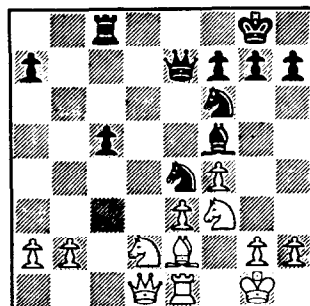

"I suppose it's because, in theatrical digs in my early days, I knew so many people like him. It all seemed to flow together."

This is the last film of the summer series. The next film will be in two weeks on September 17, 1964.

CHESS PROBLEM

In this week's problem, it is Black's move. White's King seems to be well defended, but a close study will provide a win for Black. Can you do it? Answer elsewhere in the BULLETIN BOARD.

BNL VISITORS

A group of American language students from foreign countries studying at Columbia University will visit the Laboratory on September 2.

AROUND THE BASE PADSby BOB CARCIELLO

In spite of a thunderous downpour one hour before game time, the grand finale of the softball season took place as scheduled on August 26 with over one hundred spectators and players on hand to enjoy the evening's festivities. Some excellent defensive and offensive ball playing was witnessed as the Laboratory League All Stars came out on top.

The Brookhaven (Big league) and the National (in between league) All Stars pitted their skills against each other in the opening three frames. The Nationals jumped out in front 2-0 in the bottom of the first, but the Brookhaven Stars retaliated with three in the top of the second inning and went on to defeat the Nationals 3-2.

No runs scored in the fourth inning as the Laboratory (Little league) and Brookhaven League Stars put their skills on the line. Back to back triples by Les Lawrence (Kludge) and Bob Wilson (Potsareebies), followed by a sacrifice fly hit by Joe Friedes (Mets), produced two runs for the Lab All Stars. Big Steve Lewkowitz (Pots) did the pitching for the Lab All Stars and went on to shut out the Brookhaven Stars 2-0.

More excitement was generated by the final three innings in which the winner was to be determined. Down by one run in the bottom of the ninth, Ike Cole (Mets) led off with a double and scored on a fielders choice to tie the score 3-3. Jack Baer (Odd Balls) followed with a single and scored from first on a screaming line drive double hit by Joe Friedes (Mets). This run put the Laboratory league All Stars ahead 4-3 and gave them a total of 6 runs for the night.

Final Score: Laboratory League - 6; National League - 5; Brookhaven League - 3.
